Strategic Workforce Planning

Ref.: 1113_1479 Date: 21 - 25 Feb 2027 Location: Manama Fees: 4700 GBP

Strategic Workforce Planning is a 5-day senior workforce strategy course delivered by Mars Training Centre UK in London, Dubai, Kuala Lumpur, Johannesburg and Amsterdam, and online — designed for senior HR leaders, chief people officers, business-unit directors and strategy leaders responsible for ensuring the organisation has the people it will need.

Most organisations have a workforce plan. Few have one that connects credibly to the business strategy, looks beyond the next budget cycle, or accounts for the structural shifts now reshaping the labour market — demographic change, automation, AI, geographic dispersion and rising employee expectations. This programme is built for senior leaders who want to lift workforce planning out of the headcount-budget conversation and turn it into a strategic discipline.

Across five focused days, you will work through the major frameworks of strategic workforce planning — demand and supply analysis, scenario-based planning, capability and skill modelling, the build, buy, borrow or automate choice, succession and talent pipelines, and workforce-related risk — apply them to real cases drawn from British, European, Gulf and Asian organisations, and build a strategic workforce plan for an area of your own organisation. The programme is delivered by senior practitioners with executive HR and strategy experience.

What You Will Learn

- Distinguish strategic workforce planning from headcount budgeting.
- Link workforce planning to strategy, operating model and capability needs.
- Forecast workforce demand and supply at executive depth.
- Apply scenario-based planning to workforce uncertainty.
- Map capability and skill gaps and choose how to close them.
- Lead the build, buy, borrow or automate decision deliberately.
- Design succession and talent pipelines for critical roles.
- Anticipate workforce-related strategic risks — demographic, technological and regulatory.
- Communicate the workforce strategy to boards, peers and the workforce itself.

How You Will Benefit

You will leave with a working strategic workforce plan for an area of your organisation and a Mars Certificate of Completion.

Your organisation will gain a senior leader who can hold credible workforce conversations at the executive table, reduce the gap between strategic ambition and people capability, and protect the long-horizon talent investments most organisations under-fund.
