Building Trust in Hybrid Teams

Ref.: 1017_889 Date: 04 - 08 Oct 2026 Location: Muscat Fees: 5700 GBP

Building Trust in Hybrid Teams is a 5-day senior leadership course delivered by Mars Training Centre in London, Dubai, Barcelona, Amsterdam, and Kuala Lumpur, and online — designed for directors, vice presidents, and senior managers leading teams that are split across offices, time zones, and home-working patterns.

The shift to hybrid work has not made leadership easier. The leaders who relied on corridor conversations, office presence, and the silent signals of a shared room are now leading people they see in person only some of the time, on screens for the rest of it, and sometimes never. Trust — the lubricant that used to be free in an open-plan office — now has to be designed in deliberately. The leaders who succeed at hybrid are not the ones who try to recreate the office; they are the ones who rebuild trust on a new foundation.

Across five focused days, you will diagnose the current state of trust in your own hybrid team, work through the patterns of teams that have failed and recovered under hybrid conditions, practise the specific rituals and communications that build trust at distance, and leave with a personal action plan to apply when you return to your role. The programme is delivered by senior practitioners with experience leading distributed teams across Europe, the Gulf, Asia, and the Americas.

What You Will Learn

By the end of this programme, you will be able to:

- Analyse the components of trust — competence, reliability, transparency, and care — and how each is built differently at distance.
- Diagnose the current level of trust in your own hybrid team using a structured framework.
- Design the rituals and routines that produce trust across time zones, locations, and working patterns.
- Distinguish between presence and contribution, and lead a team where performance is judged on outcomes rather than attendance.
- Run hybrid meetings that include remote participants equally rather than treating them as an afterthought.
- Communicate in writing with the clarity and warmth that distributed work demands.
- Detect the early signals of trust breakdown — silence, side channels, surface agreement — and intervene before they harden.
- Build inclusion across hybrid teams that span cultures, languages, and seniority levels.
- Lead difficult moments such as disagreement, mistakes, and restructuring under hybrid conditions.

How You Will Benefit

You will leave with a clear diagnosis of trust in your own team, a redesigned set of team rituals, and a Mars Certificate of Completion.

Your organisation will gain a senior leader whose hybrid team is more cohesive, more productive, and harder to lose to competitors — with measurably better information flow between sites and faster execution across geographies.
