Talent Acquisition and Workforce Planning

Talent Acquisition and Workforce Planning is a five-day senior resourcing course delivered by Mars Training Centre across its international training centres — including London, Dubai, Amsterdam, and Kuala Lumpur — designed for heads of talent acquisition, resourcing directors, and senior HR leaders responsible for the supply of people to the business.

The market for senior talent has tightened in ways that few resourcing functions are structured for. Critical skills are scarce, hiring costs have risen, employer-brand expectations have changed, and workforce planning has had to become a quarterly conversation rather than an annual one. Boards now ask resourcing leaders for forecasts, scenarios, and skill gaps with the same precision they ask of finance.

Across five focused days, you will work through the full talent-acquisition value chain — from strategic workforce planning and demand forecasting, through sourcing strategy, assessment, offer, and onboarding — and the metrics that prove it is working. The programme is delivered by senior practitioners who have run resourcing functions through growth, restructuring, and skill-shortage cycles.

What You Will Learn

- Forecast demand and supply for critical roles using structured workforce-planning methods.
