
Customer Experience (CX) Management

Customer Experience (CX) Management

Customer Experience CX Management is a 5-day senior customer experience course delivered by Mars Training Centre across our international centres in London, Dubai, Amsterdam, Kuala Lumpur, and Bangkok — designed for chief customer officers, heads of CX, and senior leaders accountable for the end-to-end experience their customers have with the organisation.

Customer experience has moved from a service-team concern to a board-level commercial discipline. Customers now compare every interaction with their best digital experience, regulators are tightening fair-treatment standards, and the cost of a poor experience shows up in churn, complaints, and reputational damage. The senior CX leader's job is to design, govern, and improve the experience across functions that often do not naturally work together.

Across five focused days, you will work through the full CX management stack: CX strategy, journey design, voice-of-customer programmes, experience measurement, governance, and the leadership behaviours needed to lead a cross-functional experience programme. The programme uses case material from British, European, and Middle Eastern organisations and is grounded in your own customer context.

What You Will Learn

By the end of this programme, you will be able to:

- Build a customer experience strategy aligned with corporate strategy.
- Map customer journeys end to end across functions and channels.
- Design a voice-of-customer programme that drives real change.
- Apply validated CX metrics NPS, CSAT, CES with discipline.
- Diagnose experience pain points and prioritise improvement.
