
Building High-Performance Teams

Building High-Performance Teams

Building and Sustaining High-Performance Teams is a 5-day course delivered by Mars Training Centre in London, Dubai, Istanbul, Munich, and Bangkok — designed for senior leaders responsible for the performance of significant teams.

Most senior leaders inherit teams more often than they build them. The discipline of turning an inherited group into a genuinely high-performance team — and then sustaining that performance over years rather than months — is what separates good directors from great ones. The research on what makes teams perform is now strong, and the practical disciplines are learnable.

Across five days, you will work through team-formation models, examine the dynamics that derail high-performance teams, and develop the personal disciplines that hold a team together over time.

What You Will Learn

By the end of this programme, you will be able to:

- Diagnose your current team's stage of development and performance level.
- Apply validated team-effectiveness frameworks including Tuckman and Lencioni.
- Build trust and psychological safety as deliberate disciplines, not happy accidents.
- Manage team conflict productively rather than suppressing or avoiding it.
- Design performance management that drives the right behaviour.
- Recover team performance when a team has stalled or fractured.
- Sustain high performance through leadership changes and external shocks.
- Build a personal team-leadership plan for the 90 days after the course.

How You Will Benefit

You will leave with practical tools to build and sustain the team you lead, and a Mars Certificate of Completion.

Your organisation will gain a senior leader who builds teams that outperform — and outlast — the leader.
